LATIN AMERICAN AND CARIBBEAN STUDIES PROGRAM AT CORNELL UNIVERSITY

Cornell's Latin American and Caribbean Studies Program (LACS) was founded in 1961, and is celebrating its 60th anniversary this year. It is an interdisciplinary program for Cornell students, faculty, staff, community members, and academic visitors with interests in Latin America and the Caribbean. It has over 30 core and 60 affiliated faculty from across Cornell's colleges and professional schools, spanning the disciplines of the humanities, social sciences, and natural sciences.

LACS expands the intellectual presence of Latin America and the Caribbean at Cornell by organizing diverse campus activities to bring together faculty, students of all levels, and the Cornell community. LACS sponsors both undergraduate and graduate minors, and it supports research on Latin America by students and faculty alike. We encourage students to gain mastery of regional languages and embark upon meaningful international experiences through study abroad programs, short-term course visits, research, and internship opportunities.
